A Clean Man

Outside cleanliness is less than half the battle. A man may scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Good health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. It means a clean stomach, clean bowels, clean blood, a clean liver, and new, clean, healthy tissues. The man who is clean in this way will look it and act it. He will work with energy and think clean places healthy thoughts.

clean, clear, healthy thoughts.

He will never be troubled with liver, lung, stomach or blood disorders. Dyspepsia and indigestion originate in unclean stomachs. Blood diseases are found where there is unclean blood. Consumption and bronchitis mean unclean lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

prevents these diseases. It makes a man's insides clean and healthy. It cleans the digestive organs, makes pure, clean blood, and clean, healthy flesh.

It restores tone to the nervous system, and cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. It contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs.

Constipation is the most unclean uncleanliness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure it. They never gripe. Easy to take as candy.

ALCOHOL IN SICKNESS.

At one of the London public hospitals a special point is made of giving alcohol to the patients as rarely and sparely as possible; and each time that one of the physicians does so he submits a special entry of the reasons that actuated him. In the thirty-two years of the existence of the hospital alcohol has only been given seventy-one times. The cases received are exactly like those received by all the other hospitals. For 1904 they numbered 1857 in patients only. The death-rate among these was 7.3 per cent. For the same year the average death-rate among the other London public hospitals was 9.1 per cent. Therefore the use of alcohol in sickness is not to be regarded as a necesity. Although most physicians presided and alloched in subtien with dames ness is not to be regarded as a necesity. Although most physicians precribe alcohol in solution with drugs or their patients—there was one physician of national reputation who did not believe in using alcohol. Many years ago when Dr. R. V. More Good Roads Gospel.

The Ohio Farmer has the right idea about the principles of road construction. That is, as to the policy which ought to be supported by farmers and developed for their benefit. The Ohio Farmer expresses little sympathy with what are called State-wide highways, but it suggests a substitute in the form of neighborhood roads, radiating from shipping centers.

It costs too much for the farmer to get his crop to market. He complains a great deal about railroad charges and railaoad discrimination, and in many cases these complaints are just.

But he ought to complain about his county authorities, about his neighborhood officers, about the men who have not provided good roads to the nearest railroad sta-

Each county ought to develop year by year a system of good roads covering the whole territory, but, as the Ohio Farmer suggests be built for the benefit of the farmer, to enable him to get his crops to market. Then if they are useful to the automobile owners or useful to other traffic, well and good.

The truth is, no community can overestimate the value of good roads Every dollar put in good roads adds $10 to the land in that neighborhood.

But this does not mean that roads ought to be built regardless of local necessities or local movements. In Pennsylvania recently the Legislature appropriated five million dollars to build a highmay from Philadelphia to the Ohio line. Protest came from the farmers about this waste and extravagance, and the Governor vetoed the bill.

There is a prejudice in farming communities against the bicycle, and it is disappearing and it ought to disappear. The farmer ought to watch carefully the development of the automobile.

It has heretofore been the toy of the rich. It is gradually developing on lines which may make it the most efficient aid to the next generation of farmers.

The movement for good roads took on a national aspect when the bicycle was a new instrument of locomotion. The roads remained long after the bicycle craze disappeared, or after it gave place to the aftomobile movement.

A writer in the Philadelphia Press contends that gossip in the country villages is not nearly so prevalent as it is in the so-called best social circles in the citiescent stamps for the cloth-bound vol-ume, or only 21 stamps for the book nor it is so vicious. The unkind word, the slanderons word, the character-assassinating word, make up a deal of the small talk of people of small minds and corrupt natures.
